

Roy Shenhar received his B.Sc. in Chemistry and Computer Science in 1995 and his Ph.D. in Chemistry in 2002, both from the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. After 3 years as a Fulbright Postdoctoral Fellow at the University of Massachusetts – Amherst, he returned to Israel in 2005 and spent a year as a Zeff Postdoctoral Research Associate at the Faculty of Electrical Engineering at the Technion. In 2006 he joined the Institute of Chemistry at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. His research centers on the development of block copolymer-mediated self-assembly strategies for nanotechnological applications.